Con.fusión

BIOGRAPHY

Con.fusión is the solo project of Catalina Aguilera Martínez: a vocal proposal moving between hip hop, jazz, neo soul and the exploration of voice as a territory of research, not as decoration.

Her trajectory begins in collaboration with producer Fat Jota, with whom she develops a sound close to lo-fi hip hop documented in the EP verdad. From there she evolves towards the band Fat Lady, where the language shifts to the crossing of neo soul and rock. She has actively participated in festivals and platforms like Beatminds (alongside DJ Dacel), Furia Jazz and other circuits of the Chilean improvised and urban music scene.

Her single Cantas Veces is released as a preview of the work in process. She is also the guest voice on Ecamhi's en viaje EP—the inaugural release of PHŌNÉ Records— appearing as vocalist on pieces that cross trumpet and timbral exploration.

Her vocal practice ranges from orthodox singing to rap, scat and wordless textures: the voice is treated as an instrument on equal footing with brass and electronics. Compositions combine hip hop structures—beats, samples, breakbeat—with harmonies inherited from contemporary jazz and cinematic atmospheres, in a zone where song and sonic piece blur into each other.

Her debut album Tulpa is in production, an intensive laboratory of research and creation led by producer Jenry Cancura (alias Matiah Chinaski). The work crosses hip hop, jazz, neo soul and sound art practices, with brass and winds—trumpets, saxophones—in nocturnal and cinematic atmospheres. Tom Waits and Lhasa de Sela appear as explicit references for the project. The tracklist in progress includes Acertijo, En vez de quejarte tanto and Pisando caca a propósito.

She has applied to the FRECUENCIAS 2026 residency (Bordeaux, France, October 2026) to deepen the project's stage dimension. PHŌNÉ accompanies the production of Tulpa with creative direction, arrangement assistance and visual curation, in an extended-format process that prioritises incubation over rushed release.
