Ecamhi

BIOGRAPHY

Enrique Camhi —Ecamhi— is a Chilean trumpet and flugelhorn player, producer and photographer whose solo work inhabits the zone where image and sound feed each other. He doesn't sign "music with photos" or "photos with music": both come from the same creative gesture and are published as a single object.

He is preparing his debut EP, en viaje, the inaugural release of PHŌNÉ Records. The work departs from an archive of photographs captured during his international tours as trumpet player of Newen Afrobeat: each song is linked to an image taken in the transit between countries, conceived as a sensitive archive of crossing —momentary companions, brief stops, emotions that leave a mark. The launch is staged as a non-linear exhibition with individual listening stations: each visitor builds their own path between photograph, headphones and corresponding piece. The curatorial structure —image as starting point, sound as response— operates as a methodological statement for the label.

As a session player, he has been part of Newen Afrobeat's brass section for years. His trumpet appears on the LPs Curiche (2019) and Grietas (OfficeHome Records, 2024), where he also co-composes Mare Mare with Martin Concha and co-directs the album art with Tom Pavez.

In his solo work he crosses instrumental music, jazz, chamber electronics and interdisciplinary stagings. The trumpet operates as a thread —melodic theme, counter-line, diffuse atmosphere— over arrangements that privilege silence and spatial geometry. Photography is not paratext: many pieces only exist in relation to the image that triggered them.

He is the cross-orchestra voice of the PHŌNÉ ecosystem: besides Newen, he appears as a guest in Estudios Del Maipo: Live Session by Gestosimple & Klaus B (2025) and on the single Quisiera Entender by Klaus B (2023), recorded after the Lagos tours with Newen Afrobeat. The guest voice on his en viaje EP is Catalina Aguilera (Con.fusión); sax and co-composition are by Vicente Aravena; mastering by Daniel Pérez.

He continues active in Newen Afrobeat's formation with scheduled performances on the Europe 2026 tour.
